In conversation with Renée Killian-Dawson

Renée's love affair with buildings led her into interiors via architecture, landscape architecture and the world of fashion. Her experiences living in New York, Chicago, Tokyo, Athens, Barcelona, London, Herefordshire on the Welsh Marches, Charleston and finally the Hampshire countryside, have become the lens through which she views and interprets the world. She is co-founder and Creative Director of Studio Killian-Dawson, a full-service interior design studio working on assignments globally, specialising in residential projects in cities and country houses, and commercial ventures including private members clubs, boutique hotels and restaurants.
